A TIME FOR JOY

A time for joy and a time for tears, that's graduation. The achievements of the past and hopes of the future all gathered into one splendid night. Twelve years of work honored by all: friends, parents, relatives.

Graduation means different things to different people, but to all it means the end of adolescence and the beginning of adulthood. Some will go on to a college, others will get married and settle down, still others will go on to work.

All will try to reach their highest goal, their greatest expectations. Yes, graduation is a time for joy and a time for tears, an accomplishment for seniors, for teachers, and a fit end for adolescence and a good approach to adulthood.

The above shall be graduates of Black Star High School on May 22, 1958. The Commencement exercises will begin at 7:30 p.m.

We wish this class a most successful future as they leave us. Good luck to each and every one of them as they start their journey into the world.

Ode to the Chemise

The style for gals is now to drape
In formless sacks thwir lovely shapes.
This style makes women look a fright;
So, men, it's time for us to fight.

Now, why should women think they need
To look just like a sack of feed?
The sack-like dress sure has me beat--
What man could love a sack of wheat?

We want our gals to look their best,
And sacky dresses don't meet the test.
The dress that men all think is fine
Is one that shows the contour line!

I may be old and out of date,
But gals in sacks with me don't rate.
So, gals, if you your men would rile,
Just buy a sack and be in style

GRADUATION MANNERS

Graduation brings the necessity for observing many details of courtesy. A note of thanks written by hand and on note paper must go to everyone who has sent a present to the young man or woman. This note need not be long, but it should express appreciation and be written as promptly as possible.

"I can't thank you enough, Aunt Agatha, for the check you sent me which will be a wonderful help toward the future."

Or, "Dear Aunt Martha Thank you for the beautiful flowers which you sent me. They could not take your place, but they are an ever present reminder of your loving thought of me."

Since invitations to graduation exercises are usually limited to a very small number for each student the impropriety of sending announcements to say that So-and-So will be graduated on such-and-such a date must be stressed. To send them out afterwards, as all other announcements, would be entirely proper.

SENIOR STAFF SAYS GOODBY

With this issue, we seniors will close our high school careers as newsmen. We'll be cleaning printer's ink from our fingernails for the last time, for this is our last issue.

Now we hand the reins to the junior members of the Journalism Club, and wish them success as they learn to love this special part of school. We express to Mrs. Kersey our deep appreciation for her help and understanding. We hope it mean's to you what it did to us.

We hear that the worm-season is in, at least that's what Gary, Clarkie, and Curtis say.

"ex" means a has-been, ...and of course a "spurt" is the result of pressure on a grip. Together it makes an expert.

Droopy: "Did you see that pretty girl smile at me??"

Eddie: "Well, the first time I saw you, I had to smile too!"

LUNCH STORY PROVES FATAL

My name is Leon Ridner. I'm a newspaper reporter. I'm here to check on the statement of Mr. William L. Mills, principal of Black Star School, who was quoted as saying, "Some day some of you are going to get killed standing in front of one of the hall doors when the lunch bell rings."

I'm standing in front of one of these doors now. It's 25 minutes after 12 o'clock and the bell rings at 12:30. The door is closed, but I notice it opens into the hallway. The hall is empty now, and I notice the gentle, soothing murmur of the class.

I don't really believe these are the kind of students who rush to the cafeteria as if food were going out of style tomorrow. I might as well go home, but guess I'll stick around and see if their rows are straight as they march out.

Ah, it's 12:30.there's the bell. I just can't wait to prove Mr. Mills wrong. Hummmm, what is that rumble in the room?? I thought I was in front of a bookkeeping class... but it must be their science lab. Sounds as though they are firing a rocket.

No, It's more like desks being thrown around the room, but I don't believe these kids would.... would....would.....
...EEEEEEYIKES!!!

(Editor's note: Services will be tomorrow at 4 p.m.)

UP ON YOUR MANNERS?

Are the following statements true or false?? See answers on Sport Page.

1. It is not necessary for a young girl in her teens to rise when greeting those older than herself.
2. When meat is cut, it is cut as eaten, not all at once before beginning to eat.
3. It is proper for a woman or girl to offer her hand, if she desires, but a gentleman never makes the first move to shake hands with a lady.
4. When trying to find seats in a theater, and no usher is available, the lady precedes the gentleman down the aisle.
5. Never smoke without asking permission of the lady or older person in whose company you may be.
6. After spreading one's bread, the person lays the knife back beside the plate.

7. At a casual meeting the woman is always the first to speak.

8. When spreading bread, always spread the whole slice.

9. When walking the street, the gentleman always takes the inside.

10. A girl never combs her hair in public.

11. When ordering in a restaurant, the girl always orders first.

12. When eating french fried and shoestring potatoes, eat them by the fingers if they are bite sized or have been halved with a fork.

13. After stirring coffee or tea, keep the spoon in an upright position in the cup.

14. Picking one's teeth and chewing the tooth pick is accepted as proper etiquette.

Thrift is a wonderful virtue....especially in one's ancestor!!!
